Meetings Today Announces 2023 Best of Meetings Today Awards Winners

CEDAR RAPIDS, IA, October 1, 2023—With the meetings and events industry reinvigorated to its pre-pandemic vitality, Meetings Today announced the winners of its 2023 Best of Meetings Today Awards, an annual recognition given to the top meeting facilities and destination marketing organizations (DMOs) in North America, as well as the top global DMOs.

The winners were selected via voting by Meetings Today’s audience and content team.

“In-person meetings and events are coming back as strong as ever, and these facilities are among the best at serving them,” said Tyler Davidson, vice president and chief content director of Meetings Today. “While by no means an exhaustive list, the facilities and DMOs included in this year’s roster of Best of Meetings Today Award-winners have proven to be a reliable choice for their consistency, service and wealth of amenities preferred by groups.”

The following criteria applied to the nomination of meeting facilities, where applicable: quality of meeting space; guest rooms; guest services and amenities; food and beverage service; efficiency and helpfulness of staff; availability and quality of tech; recreational facilities and activities; cleanliness; and overall value and experience. The criteria for nominating destinations was the overall service they provided to planners for their meetings and events.
